At a joint meeting of the executives of the Sir George Williams University and Loyola College faculty associations, it was agreed that the successful conclusion of the present negotiations between the two institutions is designed to improve the operation of the university system of the province and, in particular, of its anglophone sector by rationalizing the utilization of available resources while preserving the cultural traditions and diversity embodied in the existing institutions.

The two associations, therefore, regret that the report of the Conseil was tended to interfere with the course of these negotiations.
